

ICEV Update

February 24, 2006

- As many of you know the construction activities are halted for several months due to issues with our current contractor, Adaptive CM LLC. The company apparently is going through a tough time and seems to be incapable to retain subcontractors (trade workers) to work on the project. The person who was managing our project has also recently left the company. In a recent meeting (February 12, 2006), the board of directors of ICEV decided to dissolve the contract with Adaptive and search for a new contractor to complete the remaining construction activities. A letter has been drafted to be issued to the company. The letter is currently being reviewed by an attorney to make sure our legal bases are covered. We expect to resolve this issue by the middle of March, clearing our ways to procure a new contractor.
- We have heard from more than one contractor who showed interest to work on this project. The interested contractors are requested to obtain copies of the design and specification documents from ICEV and submit their bids. If you are contractor or know someone who is a contractor, please contact our project manager, brother Arif Kazmi at kazmiarif@yahoo.com for further information.
- A group of volunteers are actively working on Sundays to clean up the Masjid site. This work is very much needed to maintain the site and keep it free from fire hazard, especially under the current dry weather condition we are experiencing in the valley. These brothers are starting their work on the site every other Sunday at 10:30 AM. Please join them this coming Sunday, February 26th to participate in this noble work. If you need further information about this, please visit the brothers during Sunday School activities at the LTC church.
- The Islamic School is continuing to hold its classes every Sunday at 11:00 AM. The enrollment at the school has recently increased to over 50 students. If you are interested to volunteer or enroll your children in helping the school, please contact the school principal at hug3@aol.com. The school administration recently sent an email to all involved to be punctual in attending the school at 11:00 AM.
